

Christopher A. Young, REM, CES, CEA, REPA, Director of Operations of the National Registry of Environmental Professionals, – Bio

Christopher Young is Director of Operations of the National Registry of Environmental Professionals, Glenview, Illinois. He is a Registered Environmental Manager, Certified Environmental Scientist, Registered Environmental Property Assessor and Certified Environmental Auditor. Chris is an experienced businessman having received his bachelor degree from Loyola University in Chicago and advanced training from George Washington University in Project Leadership and Management.

Chris has worked in the environmental field for 16 years as a consultant conducting environmental audits and assessments, managing multimillion dollar contracts and directing business analyses for acquisition of companies and organizations. He is a licensed pilot and travels throughout the country for major clients conducting budget development and reporting programs, contingency planning and risk analysis.

Chris is the author/editor of six books dealing with environmental management and environmental site assessment, science and auditing. Plus, Christopher is now a regular columnist and feature article writer for POLLUTION ENGINEERING Magazine.